By 1889 the Wasatch Stake Academy had been established by the Church in the new Stake House in Heber, and many Midway students attended the academy for secondary and religious education.

In 1890, the superintendent of schools issued a report on territorial and local school taxes, which showed that Midway was assessed territorial taxes of $1,116.36, county taxes of $352.80 and local taxes of $708.56, or a total of $2,177.72 in taxes. This tax was based on $4.43 territorial taxes per pupil and $1.40 county tax for each pupil. This would indicate that there were 252 pupils attending the Midway schools in 1890.

This large an enrollment at the school made the school building very inadequate, and so it was decided that enlargement was necessary. The remodeling included addition of a second story to the school and a large room for higher departments. This made three rooms available in the school, which by now had three teachers. Attewall Wootton, Sr., continued as principal, even though he was also superintendent of schools. With the remodeling came also new school equipment, including the latest models of globes, microscopes, physiological charts, geometric forms,
